CAMPAIGN WILL COST $25,000.000

Race for President Will Be Costly and Seasoned Political Financiers Find Only Amusement in Probe.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

But throughout the union in the states it is fully expected that many millions of dollars will be spent and there is no real way to get at the facts, because the federal government has no jurisdiction over state elections. It is in making the canvass for state officer that money is spent for the top of the national ticket and for congressional candidates.

'Seasoned' Ines Smile...

The truth is trat the present investi-gation of experditures in the primary campaign is making the seasoned fi-nanciers of political campaigns smile. A mere half million dollars is nothing compared to the big sums that will be spent in these identical states and ber-haps for one of the identical candi-dates when once the two conventions have named their men.

Preparations are being made for the

to make the campaign and another at-torney-general is appointed, the chances are that the Democrats will do a little nvestigating.

Chance of Two Investigations.

What appears doubtful at the present moment is whether the two old line parties will have a facit truce to drop investigating and spend all they can to elect their respective candidates, or whether they will continue to fight each other through the publicity and insinuations of campaign investigations, in which case the chances of a double-barreled investigation conducted by the senate committee on the one hand and the department of justice on the other hand, can be said to be good.

Much will depend upon the choice of each national convention. Maybe if the friends of Senator Johnson are disappointed and think money beat them they will insist on pursuing the trail no matter what effect it has on Republican chances.

On the other hand, Chairman Hays and others have repeatedly hinted at large sums of money gathered by the opportunity will not be lost to keep the controversy in the public prints in the hope of influencing the electorate next autumn.

The investigations may check expenditures for illegitimate or doubtful purposes, but the high cost of campaigning is fully realized at hom Democratic and Republican headquarters, so, no matter how conservative the leaders may try to be, they probably will find in the end that combined thye will have spent more to elect a president of the United States in 1920 than in any other year in the history of American politics.

One of the megroes held is Monroe Jones, ex-convict, who has a long police record. Jones went to the penitentiary in 1910 for four years, on a charge similar to one on which he now is held—breaking car seals. The other negroes are Carroll McSwain, Johnny Jackson and Dan Winston. All are charged with breaking car seals and iarceny and receiving stolen property. An additional charge of carrying a pistol is lodged against Jackson, on whom was found a big weapon. The grand jury will take up the cases next Tuesday.

Stage Is Set. Stage Is Set.

By comparison with previous conventions, all the scenery and props are on hand for their year's big show. There are miles of bunting flapping and fluttering in the late spring breezes of lake Michigan; there are buttons, badges and souvenirs by the hogsheads; there are bands by the score, all ready to begin blaring the campaign anthems; there are rooters and boosters preparing their voices for the uproar; there are entusiasts ready to parade at a moment's notice and to cheer with the winners and mourn with the losers.
